

When it comes to literature research, medical knowledge is essential!

The more comprehensive information you already obtain at the beginning of the study, the more targeted your own data collection and analysis can be. It is thus obligatory to carry out an extensive literature research in national and international data bases right at the beginning of the study.

We take over the research for you and offer results as abstracts, respectively as original work, summarize the hits in data bases and assist you in processing the research results.

Upon request we also introduce you to the required literature management programmes and offer suggestions regarding the processing of articles.

Let us compile both the basis from preceding studies and the current questions for your study together.
